“IN HIS HANDS”

This painting is of Todd A. Bell in his junior year against rival Michigan on November 17, 1979. He recovered a blocked punt by linebacker Jim Laughlin and ran it in 18 yards to seal the winning final score of 18-15. This play sent Ohio State to the 1980 Rose Bowl.

Commissioned by Robert Buehler (BS ’81, MS ’87) and Beth Hammons Buehler (BS ’82) and painted by Shaun Kinley (BS ’94), it is dedicated to the students and staff of The Ohio State University Office of Diversity and Inclusion, and especially the young men of the Bell National Resource Center.

Support the Todd A. Bell National Resource Center on the African American Male Center (BNRC) with your purchase of a limited edition poster of Todd Bell during this legendary moment in OSU sports history.

Working to strengthen the satisfaction and success of Ohio State’s African American male student population, the Todd A. Bell National Resource Center on the African American Male has raised retention rates of young men from 78% to nearly 90%. The Bell Center’s programs have also become a model for universities around the nation who also wish to better support their African American male students. Your purchase will have a direct impact on the BNRC’s support of over 1,500 young men each year.

Posters are 16” x 20” and are printed on 40lb glossy paper stock suitable for framing. The cost is $40 per poster with a $5 postage fee.
